Book Synopsis

What Are Your Teeth Like? is a series of fun and witty rhyming books for kids that aims to help children understand the importance of looking after their teeth. The series offers humorous, insightful, thought-provoking, and sometimes peculiar tales about curious kids who meet with different animals in the wild to compare teeth. Wonderfully illustrated, each book presents an entirely new perspective on teeth, and promises to keep kids intrigued and inspired about taking care of their own.

If I Were a Crocodile is the fourth rhyming story in the series. A young boy tells us how he thinks life would be if he were a crocodile. Interestingly enough, he finds the relationship between Plover birds and Crocodiles most fascinating, and uses this phenomenon to explain why he thinks brushing and flossing his own teeth in order to keep them clean is a more viable option!

With creative and colorful illustrations, this story can be read aloud to children by parents or teachers, or by children who are learning to read themselves.
